All You Need To Know About NOAC

The largest gathering of Order of the Arrow members in the United States, rivaled only by the National Jamboree, is just a few months away. Held in Knoxville, Tennessee, this event is also the closest NOAC to us in over 20 years. With athletic competitions, shows, AIA competitions, leadership seminars, and much more, this is an opportunity that must be taken advantage of. Reach out to your lodge to see how you can attend.

Lights, Camera, Action with Klahican

Klahican Lodge #331 has excelled in making video content for its members, especially when it comes to recent efforts such as the mini talk show 'A Brief Moment', along with other fun productions. Klahican's Vice Chief of Communications Sam Crowder shares his secrets for making this possible.

Section SR-7B: A Clear Future

With Project Magellan, the Order of the Arrow has decided to introduce a new set of regions for the national (and global) landscape of our organization. Though the section's boundaries will be the same and the SR-7B name is here to stay through Conclave, check out what's in store for the future of the OA.

Much of North Carolina experienced some wintery weather this past weekend, aside from some of our easternmost friends (no offense!) One such area was Camp Raven Knob in Mount Airy, which had quite a snowy view looking in from the entrance gate.
